PRICE FIVE CENTS

MILLERS FALLS PLAYERS IN CINDERELLA O'REILLY

Preceded by Chicken Supper by Ladies of St. Patrick's Church

The ladies of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church served a very excellent chicken supper at the town hall on Wednesday evening and several hundred availed themselves of the opportunity.

Later on, the Millers Falls Players gave a spirited rendition of the comedy "Cinderella O'Reilly", in which the character part of Maggie stands out as a specially finished piece of acting. At least, the young lady who took the part of the colleen must be perfectly natural in the part or else a wonderful actress. We incline to the latter opinion. The other parts were not up to her lead, although done in the average good amateur way.

Between the acts some good songs were sung by Miss Flora Callaghan and Lawrence Quinlan, and a sweet girl from Millers Falls gave several dainty song and dance numbers. Dorothy Quinlan officiated as pianist, with Arthur Quinlan as violin accompanist.

HORACE BOLTON OFFICIAL IN NEW 4-H CLUB

Joseph Sena, Easthampton; Harry Rapius, Agawam; Arthur Barnum, Monterey; and Horace Bolton, East Northfield were chosen president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively, of the Western Massachusetts 4-H Dairy club, which organized at Amherst on Saturday when 48 club members and 12 club leaders got together for the day's program.

The purpose of this new club, according to H. A. Leland of the Junior Extension Service of the Massachusetts Agricultural College, which sponsored the meeting, is to increase the dairy interests of 4-H boys and girls in western Massachusetts.

Sportmanship in the show ring and the arts of showmanship were emphasized to the club members by Earl J. Cooper of the National Holstein Breeders association, Mr. Cooper being the main speaker of the program. At the same time the state Holstein Breeders association, which was holding its meeting in cooperation with the Hampshire-Franklin Holstein club, announced a donation of $100 toward sending a 4-H dairy judging team to the National Dairy Show next fall. The state association has already donated $250 toward 4-H club prizes at various Massachusetts fairs. Prizes offered by other cattle clubs were also announced at the program.

Twenty-four club members attended from Hampshire county, 20 from Berkshire county, 3 from Hampden county, an 41 from Franklin county.

May 17, 18 and 19 Anne Wiggin of New York comes with about 30 Near East students for a vacation.

May 20, 21 and 22 the Massachusetts Y. M. C. A. secretaries of Boys' Work hold a conference at the hotel.

GREENFIELD PROGRESS EXPOSITION COMING

More than a third of the floor space available to exhibitors at the forthcoming Greenfield Progress Exposition has already been taken, although the campaign to interest manufacturers and merchants in the exposition has hardly begun.

The Progress Exposition, to be held May 23, 24 and 25 at the state armory will have one unique feature, a beauty contest, plans for which are now being made. Selection of "Miss Greenfield" will begin at a dance to be run off at the Casino on the Trail road, Wednesday night, May 8, at which ten damsels are to be chosen. From this number, five will be picked to compete on the opening night of the exposition for the honor of being acclaimed as the most beautiful girl in Greenfield.

The identity of the judges was not disclosed, but it was learned that "Miss Holyoke," winner of a similarly conducted beauty competition in conjunction with Holyoke's Progress Exposition a month ago, will be among their number. It is planned to have a reception committee entertain the Paper City's beauty on her visit to Greenfield.

Besides the distinction and accolade the prize winning beauty will receive a silver loving cup, to be presented at the closing night of the exposition.

NEW ENGLAND GRANITE INDUSTRY SPEAKS UP

Representatives of the granite industry of New England have conferred with supervising Architect James A. Wetmore and other officials of the treasury department at Washington, on the desirability of the use of granite in construction of federal buildings generally and those now contemplated at Boston and Portland in particular.

The conference was attended by several members of the New England delegation in congress as well as representatives of the granite industry.

Emphasis was laid on the importance of having New England buildings constructed from New England materials, rather than from those produced in and transported from other parts of the country. Increasing freight rates and other importations of granite from other states has served to make apparent the importance of immediate steps in the interest of a basic New England industry representing an estimated investment of some $40,000,000 and affording employment for some 10,000 workers.

The delegation stressed the comparative desirability and beauty of granite construction as well as the marked decrease in cost resulting from the utilization of improved machine processes recently developed.

The granite men were assured that their views would receive every favorable consideration possible.

Besides Congressman Wigglesworth those attending the conference included: Representatives Andrew of Massachusetts, Snow and Nelson of Maine, Hale of New Hampshire, and Gibson of Vermont.

Many theatre-goers have been waiting for the presentation "Glad Rags," the big Orange Players' production for 1929 which will be given in Lawler theatre, Greenfield, on the evening of May 6. Those who have seen the play are unanimous in their opinion that it is the finest play yet produced by Roy French. It is collegiate in character with all the snap which such a play should have. The speaking cast has been greatly benefited by the addition of "Peggy" Abell, "Flash" Fallon, Dr. Howard Bemis and Arthur Foye, all of Athol, while Miss Doris Milville, also of Athol, has much to do with the dancing. Other members of the speaking cast include Virginia Harrington, Merton Overing, James Wood, Sylvia Thompson, Robert Roth, Henry Wood, James Wood, Fred White, Elmer Noren and Roy French. The audience will be glad to have Fred White back in the fold. His eccentric dancing and snappy songs are as usual a real hit. Little Frances Merritt has two solo dance numbers and appears also with Virginia Wood and Jacquelin Elliot in specialty numbers.

Word comes from Holyoke that the American Writing Paper Co., Inc., has sold its No. 1 and 3 mills of the Riverside division to the Zeldo Products corporation, a concern engaged in the manufacture of translucent wrapping paper and therefore not a competitor to the local paper manufacturing business. When in full operation it is expected that the plant will employ about 400 hands, 75 per cent of them unskilled. Outside of the DuPont plant in the field it is asserted.

The complete corporation is not yet effected but William J. Norton, treasurer of the American company, is one of the local men interested. The corporation will be capitalized at $2,000,000. The mills will have to be in large part remodeled and this work will probably be done by local contractors. One unit will be started at first with a capacity of about 1,000 pounds a day. A unit costs about $250,000.

Harris had offered to pay the rental of $500 a year for a period of three years on the proposed landing field in Vernon. It was said that the field in question could be bought for $5,500, which is less than the price at which the field was offered to the Chamber of Commerce airport committee only a few months ago.

Roy C. Hatch of Mount Hermon, chairman of the local district of the public school superintendency, presided at the annual meeting at the Northfield Hotel on Monday evening.

About 60 members of school committees, their wives or husbands and teachers were present.

"TULIP TIME" WAS AMBITIOUS EFFORT

Best Thing of Its Kind Ever Put on in Northfield

All agree that the operetta "Tulip Time" presented in Silverthorne hall, under the auspices of the Fortnightly, on Friday evening was the best thing of its kind ever given in Northfield. The only thing that marred the completeness was Mr. Lawrence's attack of throat trouble (undoubtedly brought on by his strenuous efforts in the training and drill of the whole cast) which compelled the singing of his two leading songs by other members of the company. A better drilled chorus in an amateur company it has never been our lot to see and the principals, too, were all so good that it would be difficult to select ones for special mention.

However, the rendition of Katinka, a village maiden, by Esther Morgan Williams; that of Hans, a young Dutch apprentice, by Philip Porter; and Hendrick Van Ooster, bourgeoismaster of Oseendorf, by Arthur Percy Pitt, would be our choice of the best three. The lyrics were all clever and the local hits brought in most aptly. The scenic setting, with foreground of tulips and the practical windmill in the background, was just a little bit of all right.

Among all the good chorus parts, the dancing lesson, by Hans and Villagers, stands out strongly, although the "Ship Ahoy" chorus, with Ned, Dick and Students, was a close second. And the Tulip Drill of the little girls, under the direction of Miss Norma Gladys Thurston, added just that touch of realism needed to make the whole complete.

In this operetta, as in so many former instances, we have the results of the fine organizing abilities of Mrs. Pitt, without whose close guidance at all times, in both rehearsal and performance, no such measure of success could have been attained.

"THE REDEEMING SIN"
AT GARDEN THEATRE

For the third time since the beginning of her career as a Vitaphone player, Dolores Costello, Warner Bros. star, has Conrad Nagel as her leading man. These three performances have definitely established the two among the best loved lovers of the screen.

Oddly enough, though both had been famous screen artists for number of years, their paths had never come together until Warner Bros. undertook the production of "Glorious Betsy", in which Dolores played the part of Betsy Patterson, the Baltimore beauty who married Jerome, younger brother of the Emperor Napoleon—played by Mr. Nagel. This tremendously successful copartnership was followed by "Tenderloin", a story of the underworld in which the youthful favorites portrayed utterly different characters.

In "The Redeeming Sin" they are again seen together—Dolores starring as a tempestuous apache dancer of the Paris underworld—Nagel as a doctor who has established his office in the slums of the city and is called in to attend the wounded brother of the heroine. The characters that surround them conspire to make a melodrama of thrilling and glamorous intensity.

These figures should make interesting reading and tell the whole wonderful story without much need of comment. Where the general improvement has been so marked in all sections and on all streets, it seems invidious to work out percentage of improvement comparisons. Of course, it is a clean up season and a certain degree of improvement would have taken place anyhow, but it is the general experience in these special campaigns that improvement is not only accelerated, but actually goes over the normal. This has surely been the case here in Northfield this season. The figures show for themselves.

We wish we had the space and time to here record the various ways in which the legationaires, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, as well as several public spirited citizens, have helped along the campaign both by spirit and in practice. But this will have to go over until next week, when we hope to do them some sort of justice.

COMMUNICATIONS

HAVEN SPENCER POST
STATES ITS POSITION
FOR MEMORIAL DAY

At its last meeting the Haven H. Spencer Post, American Legion, voted to hold its Memorial Day exercises on Sunday, June 2nd, in order not to conflict with the other organizations who will presumably hold theirs on Memorial Day. It was felt that it would be the Sunday before Memorial Day itself. And it was felt that it would be more courteous, inasmuch as Memorial Day is in the hands of Comrade Wheeler of the G. A. R. to give him precedence.

The reason for our holding a separate observance is because we have not been asked as a Post to participate in the Town Observance. Various individual members have been approached, but not the Post as a body. If Comrade Wheeler feels that it is proper to invite individual Legion men, rather than the Post as a whole, we shall not embarrass him, or obstruct plans. The men have a perfect right to appear as individuals. But not as Legionnaires.

Either the G. A. R. gave Memorial Day to the Nation, or it did not. If the day was given to the Nation we are obviously right in observing it. And in showing by our acts that we appreciate the gift, a heritage, to pass on to future veterans in our turn. But, if the G. A. R. kept the day as its exclusive property to be passed on to its blood heirs, the heirs should observe its purposes.

Honors and prestige carry responsibility. A soldier must learn to forget himself and to think of others. Since the first of the year this Post, through its acting Service Officer, and assisted by its Auxiliary has brought almost three thousand dollars into the hands of deserving but destitute people in this vicinity. It makes no distinction among veterans or their families. All it requires to know is that the help is needed.

Why do we celebrate Memorial Day? Why not, in the interest of peace allow the Sons of Union Veterans have Memorial Day and confine ourselves to Armistice Day? That would seem to be a solution. But unfortunately, Memorial Day is not a Northfield affair. And the local Legion Post is not the supreme authority in the matter. Rightly or wrongly, the American Legion observes Memorial Day. It observed it in France along with the A. E. F. and it would observe it in Northfield along with the G. A. R. If it were permitted. However, it honors all men who offered their lives in defense of our land, and in whatever war. Jew or Gentile, Catholic, Protestant, alien or native born. All are welcomed into the Legion. It does not admit that Memorial Day is set aside for only Civil War Veterans. The nation has moved on since the Civil War. To hold the Legion responsible is ridiculous. None of us can stay the tide of time.

While the American Legion prefers to do its fighting in time of war, it is not "too proud to fight" in times of comparative peace. No compromise means war. And the spirit of no compromise is what caused this town war. How can we of Northfield, ever hope to bring peace to the world, if we can not settle the question of a simple thing like Memorial Day without fighting?

The American Legion is not pacifist. But we have turned the other cheek. We remind the citizens that the compromise committee article was voted down in the last Town meeting, and that, as a Post, we have been left out of the Town Observance. We believe that the fair minded will admit that the cause of this war was not in the military.

R. H. Wilder,
Post Commander.

The morning prayer meeting conducted by Rev. W. J. McCullough, was well attended. The afternoon session with Dr. J. East Harrison presiding, was opened with a devotional service led by Mrs. George G. Makepeace; two papers followed, one by Mrs. William H. Giebel on "The Coming of Christ for His Church," and one by Rev. Joseph V. Harrison on "The Coming of Christ to the World."

Department officers present were Mrs. Annie Howard of Greenfield, senior vice-president; Mrs. Grace Manning of Conway, a member of the executive board; Mrs. Lucie M. Adrift 6 Days on Ice,
Five Eskimos Survive

Ottawa, Ont.—The story of how a hunting party of Eskimos fought hunger and exhaustion for six days on an ice floe in Hudson straits without food or shelter was relayed to officials here by the government radio station at Nottingham Island, where the five finally found refuge.

The men had set out February 21, venturing several hundred yards out on the ice in search of game. Without warning the ice on which they were broke adrift from the shore ice, on which were their dog teams and supplies.

The floe drifted about in the pack ice of the straits. They had only their sealskin clothing to chew to appease their hunger and had to keep moving constantly to keep from freezing.

Finally their floe touched shore and the men made their way through 30 miles of wilderness to Boucherville.

Colonial House Saved
by Art School at Yale

New Haven, Conn.—A house built in North Branford in 1710 and carefully taken apart for Yale university when it was about to be demolished has been restored in part in the new gallery of the Yale art school.

The house yielded original wall paneling, windows, doors, cornices and other decorative pieces. These are regarded by authorities as truly representative of the American colonial and federal periods.

Two rooms have been set up, and through the gift of Francis P. Garvan, Yale '97, early Connecticut pieces and portraits have been hung on the walls to give the atmosphere of a colonial home 200 years ago.

Your MODEL T FORD is still a good car

THE Model T Ford led the motor industry for twenty years because of its sturdy worth, reliability and economy. Those same reasons continue to make it a good car.

As a matter of fact, nearly one-fourth of all the automobiles in use today are Model T Fords. Millions of them can be driven two, three and even five more years with reasonable care and proper replacements. Figures show that the average life is seven years.

Don't sacrifice your Model T, therefore, but take it to the Ford dealer and have him estimate on the cost of putting it in A1 shape. A very small expenditure may be the means of giving you thousands of miles of additional service.

For a labor charge of $20 to $25 you can have your motor and transmission completely overhauled. This price includes new bearings, reboring cylinders and any other work necessary. Parts are extra.

Valves can be ground and carbon removed for $3 to $4. The cost of tightening all main bearings is only $6. The labor charge for overhauling the front axle is $4.50 to $5—rear axle assembly, $5.75 to $7.

New universal joint will be installed for a labor charge of $3. Brake shoes relined for $1.50. Rear spring and perches rebushed for $1.75. The cost of overhauling the starting motor is $3. A labor charge of approximately $2.50 covers the overhauling of the generator.

It will pay you, therefore, to see your Ford dealer and have him put your Model T in good running order. By doing so you will protect and maintain the investment you have in your car and get months and years of reliable transportation at a very low cost per mile.

Hunt-Ellsworth

An April wedding of much interest to the townspeople took place Thursday April 25, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Russell Cowles when Mrs. Cowles' sister Miss Lois Hunt became the bride of John Ellsworth of Watertown, N. Y. After a wedding trip the young couple will be at home in Watertown after May 15th.

C. A. Parker and Mrs. George Decker witnessed the parade of the 104th, at Northampton last Saturday afternoon. The Legion band boys from this district mostly from Greenfield made a fine appearance in their new uniforms. The filling station at Wapping owned by Mr. Bradley of Revere was opened last Sunday for business and is very welcome to all.

C. A. Parker of Springfield was at his home over the week end. George Parker of the New England P. and T. Co. Rutland, Vt., was a recent visitor there.

The Samuel Willard Chapter of the Laymans League met at the home of Franklin A. Ritzell Monday evening. Supper was served and honorable John W. Hais of Greenfield was the speaker.

Mrs. George H. Decker of this town and Mrs. William Milkey of Greenfield spent three days this week in Boston and were registered at the Statler Hotel. They were delegates from Sylvan Rebekah lodge to the Rebekah assembly whose headquarters were at the Statler.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. N. Winslow have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Waite of Windsor, Vt. The South Deerfield Woman's club held their annual business meeting last Friday afternoon with a good attendance. The same officers who served last year were re-elected. Mrs. W. P. Gorey, President. It was voted to have a picnic at Whately Glen some time in June and the club banquet which comes in the fall to be held at Boyden hall, Deerfield.

The Monday club met with Miss Margaret Wilson at the home of Mrs. Ernest Coffin this week.

GEORGIANS ENACT OLD GOLD RUSH

See Conquest for Yellow Metal in Hills.

Dahlonega, Ga.—They are digging for gold again in the hills around Dahlonega, scene of a famous rush early in the Nineteenth century.

Men are swinging picks and shovels, searching for the metal that lured 5,000 fortune seekers, frenzied miners, over rugged mountain paths to this town, sixteen miles from a railroad, when news of the big strike in 1829 went around the world.

Gold mining around Dahlonega has been lagging since the World war, when increased wages and operating costs cut into the profits.

The Civil war resulted in the shutting down here of a branch of the United States mint in 1861, after it had coined 1,381,784 pieces, valued at $6,115,569, in its twenty-four years of operation. D. S. W. McCallie, state geologist, says while the coinage of the mint was only slightly above $6,000,000, that the mountains around Dahlonega have produced at least $10,000,000 in gold. The mint was not established here until 1838, about ten years after the first gold was found.

Two companies, operating ten or more mines, have started operations here on a modest scale. There is nothing of a frenzy about Dahlonega's gold digging this time. Doctor McCallie says he believes the mines can be made to pay if the work is carried on by trained geologists and mining engineers. He calls attention to the fact that the profits from the Dahlonega gold mines had greatly dwindled when the first gold was found in California in 1848.

Dahlonega residents do not anticipate a new gold rush. William Benjamin Franklin Townsend, quaint old editor of the town's weekly newspaper, The Nugget, says he believes there is gold in the mountains "if you know where and how to find it."

When the government abandoned the Dahlonega mint the buildings and grounds were given to the state for the North Georgia Agricultural college. A number of buildings, reminiscent of gold-mining boom days, still stand.

STRAY DOG NUISANCE AND SPREAD OF RABIES

The large number of stray unlicensed dogs in the State, as recently reported by Evan F. Richardson, Director of the Division of Animal Industry, is of great interest to the County Commissioners. They are much concerned with these stray dogs, not only because of the menace of rabies but because of the money they cost the Counties in payment for hens and other livestock bitten or killed by dogs.

The attention of the Selectmen and Mayors of Massachusetts was recently called to the spread of rabies in the State, and it was laid largely to the fact that there are so many stray and unlicensed dogs. Records show that the number of positive cases of rabies had increased from 729 in 1927 to 862 in 1928, and that the spread was due in a large measure to the fact that the menace of the stray dog was allowed to continue.

The laws of Massachusetts provide that wherever dogs do damage to domestic animals the loss shall be appraised and paid by the County. Most Counties have dog officers who recover from the owners of dogs doing damage as much as possible of the money paid out. If the owner of a dog which does damage is financially responsible almost invariably the money paid out by the County is collected.

About half of the damage done by dogs and paid for by the Counties is caused by stray dogs. It is not possible, therefore, for the County to recollect the damages from anyone, and the County is out that amount of money. It is belief of the County Commissioners that a general program of elimination of the stray dog in Massachusetts will materially reduce the amount of money they lose each year from inability of the dog officer to recollect the amounts paid for damage done by dogs.

Indian Factions in Row Over Necklace

Poncha City, Okla.—Charles H. Burke, Indian commissioner has been asked to referee the controversy between two prominent Otoe Indian families over the ownership of a bear claw necklace.

The necklace has been an adornment of the head chief for several generations. It was originally the property of Chief Two Strike in Nebraska and later adorned Two Killie, Medicine Horse and others.

After the tribe had been moved to its reservation near here the necklace came into the possession of Medicine Horse the tribal chief but not a lineal descendant of Chief Two Strike. Members of the Green family Chief Two Strike's descendants contend the necklace belongs to them. The Medicine Horse faction insist the necklace is the property of the chief and serves in lieu of a crown.

GOOD ADVICE

Here is the advice to young men of a well-known business magnate that reads so well that we do not hesitate to put it right in this column. Our only regret is that we did not write it ourselves, in the first place.

"If I were a young man on a fairly decent salary I would decide how much I ought to save out of it each week. Then I would put that amount in the bank every Saturday as I drew my pay, and I'd either live on the rest or starve. I'd rather take the chance of starving a little as a young man, than of being dependent upon somebody else when I'm too old to work. When I had saved up a few hundred dollars in this way, I would get my banker to find me a real estate loan and I'd see how it felt to have a few dollars coming in regularly that I didn't have to work for. This policy is safer and better for the average young man than going into business for himself, and well followed out, will land him in comfortable circumstances by middle life. Whereas, spending every cent he makes, as he can easily do no matter how much it is, means a hard financial struggle all the way through."

IF STOCK AND MARKET GAMBLING ONLY HURT THE GAMBLERS IT WOULD NOT NEVERMIND—BUT...

A friend of ours in the big city, in whom we have every confidence, tells us that the decade just ended marks the most wonderful epoch in finance the world has ever known. It brings us to the finish of a period of post-war credit inaction. In the ten years following the entrance of the United States into the Great War, this country gained approximately $2,000,000,000 of gold. Under our present Federal Reserve Banking Act, an increase of this size means an increase of about $30,000,000,000 in our total of available bank credit. Never in the history of the world has any country experienced such sudden and enormous credit expansion. The inevitable result has been a record-breaking advance in security values.

We are now about to experience a reversal of this tremendous movement of gold. Already $500,000,000 worth of precious yellow metal has been sent abroad to restore other nations to a sound basis of finance. This means that within the span of a single year the United States has suffered a curtailment of $7,000,000,000 in its total banking credit. And, in the meantime, there has been an increase instead of a contracting of loans. The result has been high interest rates and these diverted savings, profits and other free funds from permanent investments into the stock market. Our banks, in the past year, are said to have sold an enormous amount of bonds in order to release funds to meet the decline of deposits and for use in the short term money market.

Excessive gambling in the future will ultimately restrict purchasing power and check industrial activity by subjecting legitimate business to abnormal interest rates. Furthermore, any form of inflation that creates apprehension by over capitalizing, is destructive, because, when all is said and done, our chief banking strength lies in the confidence of the public. Our banking system reserves are lower, in proportion to liabilities, than those of any other important banking system in the world. All the gold in the United States Treasury, plus the reserves of our banks, when measured against aggregate liabilities, represents only about six and a half per cent.

We believe that some way should be found to keep all the capital of the country in legitimate industry, so that the largest possible percentage of working people will be employed and receiving wages; rather than allow mere stock and other market gambling speculators to draw so much of this credit to their own selfish uses, as to necessitate the closing down of factories and lack of opening of industrial opportunities for more wage earners. In other words, we do not believe in a civilization that permits a few thousands of individuals to win or lose immense fortunes, meanwhile causing millions of capable working people to be unable to obtain work.

Very few newspapers would dare to state this vital matter so plainly as we have done, for many reasons. The main one, perhaps, is that 'fear of the money power' that dear old Tom Lawson used to magazine so much about. The 'money power' will get you if you don't watch out? Maybe it will but we'd rather go down shouting than to stay quiet and be knocked out just the same. Cheerio.

CHILD HEALTH DAYS IN MAY AND JUNE

President Herbert Hoover has made a proclamation designating May first as Child Health Day. He invites "the people of the United States and all agencies and organizations interested in this most important subject to make reasonable effort to bring about a nation-wide understanding of fundamental significance of healthy childhood."

Massachusetts has joined wholeheartedly and child health days will be celebrated throughout the months of May and June. The school children have been working all the year to improve their health for this grand child health day. They will receive reward tags, a red one for reaching standard weight, a white one for clean, sound teeth and a blue one for good posture.

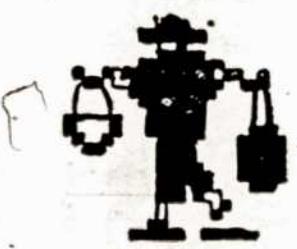

Outdoor play day will be carried on, play days based upon sound ideas of competition. Health plays will be produced many of which were written by the children.

In many places the whole town is participating in this child health celebration. The stores are planning health window displays. The librarians, the ministers and clergy, the leaders of the local clubs and the town officials are all doing their bit to bring attention to the importance of child health. Believing that youth is the strength of America they aim to improve the health services offered by the community to its children so as to make American youth strong.

You can't beat these old birds—when their wives reach forty they want to change them for two twenties.

HEYWOOD WAKEFIELD PLANT TO MOVE

Notices were posted this week in the local factory of the Heywood Wakefield Chair company that the business would be moved to the main plant in Gardner in eight weeks. After that time so far as the company is concerned the factory will be vacant. Employees who continue to work the eight weeks will be given two weeks' additional pay. It is believed that many of the employees of whom there are approximately 50, will accompany the business to Gardner, although that is more or less of a supposition. Practically all the employees are operators, most of whom have worked for the company for many years. The weekly payroll is approximately $1500, and the loss of the business to the town is something of a blow. The factory which was built 10 years ago to replace the old wooden buildings destroyed by fire, is a modern structure in every way, and is thoroughly equipped with chair making machinery. It was constructed at a big expense and there was much rejoicing at the time over the favorable decision of the company. It was feared at the time that the company would not rebuild. The factory is capable of employing many more hands than it has during the past few years, the number being curtailed because of poor business conditions in the chair industry.

The business was originally owned and operated by the Washburn interests and then associated with the Heywood interests. For many years it went under the name of the Washburn-Heywood factory. OPENING OF AIRPORT AT WHITE RIVER JCT.

From White River Junction comes a report that the Twin State Airport Corp. have awarded the contract for the grading of the new airport to fit it for the official opening, which is to be held on July 4. There were nine contractors who submitted bids for this work, the contract being awarded to the Gillette Construction Co. of Westfield, Mass., which will commence work immediately, as the contract calls for completion of the work by June 20.

APRIL STORMS RAISED HAVOC WITH BIRDS

The most astonishing of these reports are of the summer tanagers, birds which have been reported previously in Massachusetts only a few time since the 75 years in which records have been systematically kept. These birds come as far north as Maryland to spend the summer and to rear their young and only reach New England accidentally. Yet directly after the big storm in the middle of April, reports of five summer tanagers picked up in New England came in to Dr. May. Only one of these birds was alive. It seems probable to Dr. May that these birds were on their northward migration and were flying over the Carolinas or possibly Virginia when the storm struck them, whirled them thousands of feet into the air and that the upper currents of wind bore them to New England, nearly 1000 miles away. They were probably unable to fight their way back to the comparative safety of the lower air regions and simply flew on with the wind until they dropped from exhaustion.

The first report of summer tanagers came from Vineyard Haven April 17, the day after the height of the storm passed over New England. An observer who reports the arrival of birds regularly to the Division of Ornithology, wrote Dr. May of finding a male summer tanager and seeing an indigo bunting, a common summer resident bird which ordinarily arrives about May 10. The following day another observer from Vineyard Haven reported two tanagers, an indigo bunting and a scarlet tanager, another bird which arrives here ordinarily in May. Another observer at Chatham reported a summer tanager found dead April 17 and Dr. May's son found still another of these summer tanagers at Cohasset April 20. It had been dead, apparently, a day or two and undoubtedly came in on the raging wind which accompanied the storm a few days before. Dr. May reports that these tanagers, being insectivorous birds, probably could not find enough to eat here at this season and would die of starvation even if they survived the exhaustion due to their long battle with the elements for hundreds of miles in the upper air. Another report came in of a scarlet tanager found at Lewiston, Maine and still another of a cardinal grosbeak at South Portland, Maine. Several indigo buntings were reported at Ipswich, Massachusetts. All these birds, Dr. May points out, are bright in color and would naturally be seen and picked up if they fell anywhere near human habitation. On the other hand there are many species of less brightly colored birds which might drop and die right in a dooryard and not be noticed. A worm-eating warbler, a bird which is very rarely seen in New England, was reported at Ipswich. The northern limit of its nesting range is at New York and it does not arrive there until considerably later in the season.

Selected Recipes

SLICED LEMON PIE

1½ lemons
2 eggs
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon melted butter
¼ teaspoonful salt

Grate the rind of one lemon. Peel white part from lemons and slice the pulp very thin, discarding seeds. Beat eggs until light, add sugar gradually, then grated rind, water, butter, salt and lemon slices. Bake between two crusts. Put into hot oven (450 degrees). After 10 minutes reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees) and continue baking 30 minutes longer.

FROZEN PUNCH

1½ cups water
2 cups sugar
1 small bunch mint
3 cups weak tea or ginger ale
¼ cup lemon juice
2 cups orange juice
Boil sugar, water and mint together for five minutes. Chill, add remaining ingredients; strain and freeze.

A good-sized piece of seed potato is preferable to a small-sized piece. Seed pieces with 1 to 3 eyes and weighing 1 to 2 ounces will, if planted from 12 to 14 inches apart in the row, give better results than smaller pieces cut to single eyes. Cut seed pieces are liable to rot if ground is cold and wet after they are planted. Under this condition the small-sized pieces will not furnish as much plant food to the young plant as the larger pieces and they are also more likely to dry up and fail to germinate if the ground is very dry or poorly prepared.

Tonight

The dishes are out of the way. The folks next door will probably be over a little later to spend the evening. In the meantime—

It has been in Mother's mind for a long time that she'd like to hear how it goes with old friends since she came here to live.

A telephone call does it, and at surprisingly low cost.

Evening rates, which apply from 7:00 P.M. to 8:30 P.M., were designed for just such purposes.

Here is what Mother can do by telephone during this period. Any out-of-town number she wants she can give to our local operator, and for a three-minute talk the cost will be in line with the examples quoted below:

Warwick

A publicity meeting for the Well Child conference was held in the Warwick school Monday afternoon, April 30. Mrs. Albertine P. McKellar of the State Department of Public Health spoke of the five year demonstration that is being carried on in Franklin county. She gave some interesting results of the two years' work. In Warwick in 1927 41 children were examined, 31 (76%) of whom were found to be physically defective. Last year 25 children were examined, 18 were found to have physical defects, (72%). The great need for correction of the defects diagnosed at the Well Child conference was discussed, as Mrs. McKellar showed that all children who had defects in 1927 had additional defects in 1928.

Notices of the Well Child conference have been placed in the store, the library and the town hall. Possibilities for transporting the mothers to the conference who live at a distance were discussed. Anyone who could volunteer a car to assist in this endeavor on May 24 will please notify Mrs. E. M. T. Bass.

The Well Child conference will be held in the Federated church on May 24. Every father and mother who has a child within the six months to six year period, and every person who could volunteer a car, please take notice and remember the date, May 24.

Brattleboro, Vt.

Brattleboro, organ town of the world and active in many ways musically, will make a bid next week for notice with the debut of the new Brattleboro Symphony orchestra which will give its first public concert in the Auditorium, Monday evening May 6th at 8.15 o'clock.

The organization of the new symphony orchestra is due to the enthusiasm of Frank R. Jacoby, former leader of the Milwaukee Symphony orchestra, and former member of the Boston Symphony, who while not retired, has reached an age in life when he prefers Vermont town life to that of the cities.

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

CHRIST FOR ALL—ALL FOR CHRIST

Matthew 19:16, 17, 20, 21. And, behold, one came and said unto him, Good Master, what good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life? 17. And he said unto him, Why callest thou me good? there is none good but one, that is, God: but if thou wilt enter into life, keep the commandments. 20. The young man saith unto him, All these things have I kept from my youth up: what lack I yet? 21. Jesus said unto him, If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven: and come and follow me. PRAYER—O Lord, before we called, Thou didst answer us and while we were yet speaking, Thou didst hear.

The first airplane hobo—Carl Ellis of Oklahoma—photographed at El Paso, Texas, after he tumbled out of a baggage compartment of a T. A. T. plane, piloted by E. C. Bowe from Big Spring. Boy Scout Training

Remembering his Scout training, when a bag of black powder exploded and his clothes were ignited by the flames, Scout John H. Dooley, Jr., 15, of 237 Well street, Bedford, Mass., rolled on the ground until the flames were extinguished. The Scout then ran to the road and was carried to the home of his grandmother by a passing automobile. While a doctor was being called, he gave himself a treatment of linseed oil and although his burns were severe, attending physicians say that he will suffer no serious injury from his experience.

The Scout with two other companions, while on a hike, went to Sullivan Ledge. The weather was cool and the boys decided to build a fire, first clearing a space for it. One of the boys found a paper bag filled with shiny black flakes which he did not recognize as gunpowder. He laid it down not far from the fire and forgot about it. A spark from the campfire blew onto the paper bag and the contents, which was gunpowder exploded. The fire set Scout Dooley's clothes ablaze. There is a 100 foot drop into shallow water off the brink of the ledge. For a few moments the Scout poised on the brink, not knowing whether or not to jump. Then he remembered his Scout training and rolled on the ground until the fire was extinguished. The Scout says that when he was just about ready to jump off he remembered the training given him by his Scoutmaster, Ian Taylor, and remembering his instructions that a blanket or roll on the ground if his clothing caught fire, he saved himself from being severely burned.

Sousa and Chevrolet

John Philip Sousa and his world famous band will be heard over the radio for the first time on Monday evening, May 6th, in an hour broadcast, sponsored by Chevrolet Motor company to signalize the achievement of placing on the road over a half million new six cylinder cars in four months time. The radio debut of the "March King" will come through the National Broadcasting company coast to coast chain during the regular General Motors "Family Hour," starting at 8:30 p. m. According to Paul Jordan local Chevrolet dealer, Chevrolet was particularly fortunate in seeking an attraction to emphasize its latest record to secure the first radio performance of this famous director-composer who has been an American institution for the past two decades. "Naturally, we Chevrolet dealers are proud that our company has been instrumental in introducing Sousa and his band to the microphone, Mr. Jordan said. "We are equally proud, however, of the occasion marked by Sousa's first broadcast. By putting on the road over 500,000 new Chevrolet sixes since January 1, we have established a record never before duplicated by any dealer organization distributing six cylinder automobiles. In fact no other dealer organization in the history of six cylinder manufacture has ever equalled this record in the course of a full year.

PREMILLENTIAL MEET AT GREENFIELD

About fifty from Northfield attended the second in the series of Premillennial Conferences that was held in the First Baptist church of Greenfield on Monday, report a delightful occasion. Several private cars went for the morning session. In the afternoon these were augmented by the Northfield Transfer and many more cars. Mrs. George Makeplace of this place opened the afternoon session, giving the key to the whole meeting, the joy of the bride at the coming of the bridegroom. She emphasized the difference between "a belief in" and "the hope" of the Coming of the Lord. This was followed by a paper, "Behold the Bridegroom Cometh," given by Mrs. W. H. Giebel of this place. This paper gave the mountain peaks of prophecy, showing the two-fold promises of the Coming, the calling-out of the church, with the two phases of the Second Coming, the Resurrection and Rapture.

There was much interest in the Question Box which the last hour of the afternoon was given over to Dr. J. East Harrison of Mt. Hermon, who presided throughout the entire session, gave most satisfying answers to the problems connected with the subject that had puzzled many in the audience. His clear, ready answers equalled those of Dr. Cadman's Radio-hour. The present day "signs" and fulfillments of prophecy, including the enlarging of Jerusalem were well brought out.

Those who have Phil Porter as a music leader know what an inspiration it was to have him in charge of the singing throughout the afternoon and evening. He rendered one solo, "He is Near," and sang two duets with Mrs. Will Moody, who rendered two solos also. Two British songs, set to the old times of Hold the Fort and When He Cometh, which were printed on the program, were not only sung with spirit but both were repeated.

In the evening a large audience listened intently to Canon F. E. Howitt of Ontario, Canada, as he narrated his own personal experiences and then took up the subject of "The Rapture" with Enoch, the seventh from Adam and his times as his chief illustration. His fervent appeal connected with the story of "the one taken and the other left" brought the climax of another helpful, inspiring gathering.
